The Glens of Antrim

From the County Antrim town of Ballycastle to Larne, rugged cliffs stretch north for 40 miles, broken only by 9 deep green glens, each with its own unique character.

The nine glens of Antrim

- Glentaisie - The glen of taisie of the bright sides
- Glenshesk - The sedgy glen
- Glendun - The glen of the brown river
- Glenaar - The glen of the colts foot
- Glencorp - The glen of the slaughtered
- Glenballyeamon - Edwardstown glen
- Glenariff - The fertile glen
- Glencloy - The glen of the hedges
- Glenarm - The glen of the army

Myths & Legends Quest

Throughout the centuries stories have been told of strange goings on in the Glens of Antrim. A local fisherman recently uncovered a book containing a strange ancient language; not knowing what to do with this he hid it somewhere in the Glens of Antrim and locked with a secret code. Your quest is to follow the directions, solve the clues and hopefully uncover the secret code to open this book.

Solving the Trail

One of the answers on the cross will be the final answer. To find out which one you will have to solve the clues in the Trail. The answers are names or numbers you will find as you follow the Trail. The names might be first names, surnames or place names. Solve the clues; answer the questions in the correct order, delete the correct answer from your crosses found on the answer page. Solve all the clues and you will be left with the one answer. You will not be required to enter any private property, or pay any entrance fees in order to solve the mystery.

The directions will lead you from start to finish even if you cannot find an answer. If you do get lost or cannot find the answer, retrace your steps to the last clue you found and try again. You do not need to have a map to solve the Myths & Legends Trail as the clues and directions are detailed enough to ensure that you should never get lost!

Please

- Remember that you are responsible for the safety of yourself and your party whilst on the Trail. Take care and remember that crossing a road safely is more important than finding any clue.
- Respect the privacy and property of others and in particular respect the ancient monuments and memorials that are visited.
- Do not allow children to go ahead and separate from your group.
- Before you begin, agree on an emergency rendezvous point should someone become separated.

Please do not attempt to drive or walk around with the 3D glasses attached to your head, or attempt to cross roads while reading the trail.

THE WEDDING OF TAISIE

Taisie, the daughter of a King of Rathlin, was a great beauty who had gained the attentions of the King of Norway. He sent a contingent of his men to bring her back to be his bride but his demand was refused for Taisie was promised to Congal, heir to the Kingdom of Ireland. When Taisie and Congal's wedding celebrations were in full swing the King of Norway suddenly arrived with his army to capture Taisie but in the subsequent battle the Norwegian king was killed and his army returned home leaderless and empty handed.

Glendun Viaduct

This fine bridge carries William Bald's famous Coast Road towards Ballycastle across the valley of Glendun. One of the three arches spans the River Dun and another the Glendun Road. The bridge completed in 1839 was the work of county surveyor Charles Lanyon, who was only 22 years old when he designed the viaduct. Lanyon later became famous as the architect of many fine buildings including Queens University in Belfast.

Did you Know

On your return trip back to Ballycastle you will come across the Vanishing Lake. Lying just a few miles from Ballycastle on the A2, Loughareema is surrounded by unspoiled, uninhabited, heather covered hills. It would appear as just a normal lough but if you care to go away for a while upon your return you find it has completely vanished.

14 Congratulations, you have completed the Carnlough trail. Hopefully you successfully solved the clues; now make your way to Glenarm to solve your final trail.

Fairy Fiddlers

This glen has produced its fair share of skilled fiddle players, and in the past, when flax was grown in abundance, the fiddlers would be key entertainers at the flax harvest celebrations. Those with exceptional skills and knowledge of rare and beautiful tunes were said to have learned these from the fairies, known to be fine musicians.

Ask about belief in fairies and you may receive a cautious or shy response.

Fairies are feared, and it is safer to refer to them less directly, using terms such as 'the little folk'.

Did you Know

The North Antrim Coast Road runs between Ballycastle and Larne, built in 1842. Originally called the Grand Military Way it was built in light of strategic lessons learnt by government after the 1798 rebellion.

Madman's Window

About one mile south from Glenarm on the Coast Road is a large rock with an opening at the top. It is referred to as the 'Madman's Window'. The name goes back nearly two centuries ago, to the time when a young girl was drowned in Glenarm Bay. Her sweetheart was so deeply moved by her death that he lost his sanity.

Each day he would sit at the rock, gazing through the hole or 'window,' waiting for his girlfriend to return from the waters to him.

Answer Page

Can you solve the mystery of the hidden fairies inside this booklet? You have to work out how we have hidden the text to solve this mystery. If you correctly uncover our secret, remember don't tell anyone else.

The Glens folk are great storytellers, many of these stories are about "the wee folk" who have been spotted on many a dark night around the glens, especially near Lurigethan mountain and Tiveragh Hill!
